

Northern Maine Apologetics Conference
Wednesday, July 15, 2020      8:30 a.m. – 4:30 p.m.
Baptist Park, 60 Park Road, Mapleton, ME

The purpose of this conference is to encourage believers to intelligently share the Christian faith and wisely respond to questions. AIIA is the premier apologetics organization in Maine. Learn more about AIIA at aiaainstitute.org. Baptist Park is eager to have Ryan Goding as our presenter. He will provide an overview of apologetics, address common objections and questions non-Christians have about Christianity, introduce Anchor New England (which will produce apologetics-related media aimed at younger generations), and answer questions.

- This conference is open to clergy and laypersons alike (including teens)
- Total cost for the day is $25 (includes continental breakfast, dinner, & coffee breaks)

Ryan Goding has been married to his wife, Kylie Goding for 17 years and has three children – Eve, Celia, and Josiah. After being ordained by the Christian Reformed Church as a Commissioned Pastor in 2007, Ryan and his family moved to Farmington in 2008, where he planted Summit Faith Community. He currently serves as Summit’s full-time Pastor. In addition to his Pastoral responsibilities, Ryan is the manager of a local bank in Farmington. His passion for Apologetics led him to develop a relationship with Daryl Witmer, Executive Director of AIIA Institute. In October 2015, both Ryan and Kylie joined the Board of Directors for AIIA Institute where Ryan presently serves as Chairman of the Board, and Vice President of the organization. Ryan also teaches Apologetics and Systematic Theology at Pine Tree Leadership Development Network in Pittsfield, Maine. During his downtime, he enjoys spending time with family, kayaking with his wife, barbecuing in the summer, and playing cornhole with friends.
